Understanding Your AAMC PREview Score Report

This is not an official AAMC Professional Readiness score report. It is provided for your information only. The AAMC will send your official AAMC PREview score report to the school(s) you select to receive it (see above).

If you apply to medical school using the American Medical College Application Service (AMCAS), your score will be automatically released to AMCAS. You will not see AMCAS listed above and you do not need to take any additional steps to release your score to AMCAS. You may confirm your scores in AMCAS on the score release date associated with your test date.

Your selection regarding Des Moines University College of Osteopathic Medicine appears above in the "Score released to Des Moines" section.

The Total Score is reported on a scale that ranges from 1 to 9.

Similar to all standardized exams, a score on the AAMC PREview exam is not perfectly precise. A score can be affected by many factors. The Confidence Band marks the range in which your "true score" likely lies and is intended to discourage distinctions between examinees with similar scores.

Percentile Rank is the percentage of examinees who received the same or lower score than you did.
