

Name of medical school: The University of Michigan Medical School

Contact person:

Nani Sypher Hunter
Office of Medical Student Education
Phone: 734-647-2861
sypher@med.umich.edu

Name of school/program that offers the MPH curriculum:

The University of Michigan School of Public Health

Length of program:

5 Years

Available Concentrations:

- Biostatistics develops and applies statistical methods to the design and analysis of studies in public health and biomedical research.
- Environmental Health Sciences is dedicated to advancing knowledge, training practitioners and researchers, and communicating evidence-based science to improve health and avoid harm.
- Epidemiology has worked to reduce disease in human populations through research, education, and service.
- Health Behavior and Health Education focuses on the social and behavioral factors associated with health status and behavior by developing programs that promote health, prevent disease, and manage chronic illness.
- Health Informatics prepares students for careers that will harness the power of information to enhance health and transform individual health and health care.
- Health Management and Policy offers exciting and challenging degree programs for gaining knowledge and skills in health services management and health policy.
- Nutritional Sciences provides a breadth of knowledge, skills, research opportunities, and hands-on experiences to students who are seeking a robust curriculum and educational experience in cellular, physiological, epidemiological, global, and public health nutrition.

You may apply:

During 3rd year of medical school

MPH Tuition Policy:

MPH tuition is individualized, based on each student's enrollment schedule.

Websites:

<http://www.med.umich.edu/medstudents/curRes/dualDegree/pdf/md-mph-msha.pdf>
<http://sph.umich.edu/academics/programs-degrees/>